

Crawford County Avalanche

SIXTY-NINTH YEAR * * * NUMBER 47.

GRAYLING, MICHIGAN, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1946.

8 PAGES — PRICE 5c

Governor-elect Kim Sigler and his all-Republican state administration at Lansing are going to have a financial headache of pre-Volstead proportions after January 1.

All because of Michigan's Nov. 5 atomic bomb—the voters' thumping approval of the sales tax amendment and the $270,000,000 veterans' bonus.

To solve the problem of operating state public services on revenue short of two-thirds of the state sales tax—the traditional Michigan goose that lays the golden eggs—is sure to give Governor-elect Sigler and his advisers plenty of worry. The state legislature will have to wrestle with the problem in the 1947 general session, certain to be convened early in January.

Legislators will be confronted with two tough alternatives.

First, should state services be drastically curtailed or eliminated in order that the expenditures of the next fiscal year (starting July 1, 1947) may be brought into balance with the state's shrinking revenues?

And if so, what services should be lopped off or dropped?

Should the state educational institutions—University of Michigan, Michigan State College and all the others—be granted additional funds for housing of veterans, completion of needed classroom buildings and other improvements long deferred since advent of the Great Depression in 1932?

How about hospital additions? Twenty more beds are needed at the state prison at Jackson. Well, the limit is not a matter of money, but of space. Someone must make a decision; someone must make a priority. We sympathize with the legislature trying to work this one out. It's not going to be easy.

Second, should the State of Michigan enact new taxes?

The $270,000,000 veterans' bonus, for example, will be financed chiefly by state bonds. These bonds, if sold at 1 1/2 percent interest and retired in 20 years, would cost well over 300 million dollars. The interest alone would be $42,000,000.

While the amendment limits a bond issue to $270,000,000, it also provides that any person who served in the armed forces of the United States in World War I, Sept. 16, 1914 and June 30, 1918, and who was a resident of Michigan at least six months prior to entering the services and who served for more than 60 days shall receive a month's salary. This will be computed at the rate of $10 for each month of domestic service and $15 for each month of foreign service. The maximum payment is to be $500.

However, additional payments are also authorized.

Surviving dependent relatives (husband, wife, children, mother, father, brothers, sisters, grandfathers, grandmothers, or persons who shall die hereafter from service-connected causes incurred between Sept. 16, 1914 and June 30, 1918, shall be paid a sum equal to the difference between what he has received and $500.

How much will all of this cost the Michigan taxpayer? The Michigan Public Expenditure Survey estimates the bill at $343,000,000. It believes that the service fund will be called upon to supply $31,500,000 as an ADD-ED amount to the $270,000,000 bond issue. The $42,000,000 interest cost rounds out the all-over sum.

In presenting this information, we wish to remind our readers that this column predicted Nov. 5 adoption of the veterans' bonus.

We have presented the major NEW taxes or will INCURRIABLE present taxes in its 1947 general session. It is agreed at the capital that the financial pinch may not come immediately in 1947. The state could get along fairly well while utilizing reserves and balances now available in the state treasury.

For example, one of these reserves is a $50,000,000 veterans' fund which was created by the legislature back in 1943.

It is the purpose of liquidating Michigan's obligations, after the termination of the war, to its returning servicemen, their widows and dependents. This fund was made possible by state surplus of revenues over expenditures during the war boom.

It was the original thinking of

Green Wave Opens 14 Game Basketball Schedule Next Tuesday

The Grayling Green Wave travels to Pellston next Tuesday to open their 1946-47 basketball schedule, which calls for 14 varsity and reserve games. The home opener will take place on December 13, when they will play hosts to Gaylord.

Coach Willard Cornell has four returning lettermen from his last year's squad as well as nine reserve letter winners. He reports a total of 88 boys out for the cage season.

Although it is still early to pick a starting lineup, Coach Cornell said he felt that the four returning lettermen—Keway, Carlson, R. Miller and C. Feldhauser—would be almost certain starters, with a wild scramble for the fifth starting spot.

Nine Reserves

Returning reserve letter winners are Hanna, Burns, Goss, Bielski, Rasmussen, C. Papadick, J. Rasmussen, Holm and Grimstad. Several of these boys showed up well in reserve games last year and should make good varsity material this year, after a year of seasoning in last year's training games. The remainder of the squad is composed of J. Douglas, J. Crawford, J. McEvers, R. Milnes, Owens, J. Keway, G. Crawford, A. Peterson, J. Smock, Richardson, Hanson, Anthony, J. Feldhauser, E. Miller, V. Papadick, Niederer, Gritman, Kitchen, Parkinson, Parsons, Rasmussen, Nielsen, Lozon and Kragle.

Following is the complete 1946-47 schedule (home games in black type):

- November 26—Pellston at Pellston
- December 6—Roscommon at Roscommon
- December 13—Gaylord at Grayling
- December 20—Mancelona at Grayling
- January 7—Fairview at Grayling

- January 17—Charlevoix at Charlevoix
- January 21—Charlevoix at Charlevoix
- January 24—Pellston at Grayling
- January 31—Roscommon at Grayling
- February 7—Gaylord at Gaylord
- February 14—Mancelona at Mancelona

Independent Cage Practice Starts

Grayling is to be represented by two independent basketball teams this winter. Spike Keggars, who started independent play here again last winter after a layoff during the war, will again take the floor this winter. Grayling Post No. 106 American Legion, is also sponsoring a team.

Myron Burrows will again manage the Keggars, while Clair Melroy is handling the Legionaires. Both squads had their first practice session at the high school gym last Wednesday evening, with both having good turnouts. Burrows reports that he has a really promising squad of 14 men led by veterans of last year—Ed Smith, Bob LaChapelle, Ross Thompson and Carl Nielsen. Also on the squad again from last year are Jack Hull and Bruce Nielsen. Among many promising recruits are Roger Giegling, Sandy

Winter Sports For Holidays

If the weatherman co-operates, there will be skating, skiing and tobogganing at the Conservation Department's winter sports area here for vacationers in the Christmas holidays.

Arrangements have been made for the Grayling Chamber of Commerce to care for transportation and housing of winter sports fans who wish to visit the Conservation Department's parks and recreation division will operate facilities and concessions at the winter sports area for an eight-week season beginning late in December. Snow trains are expected again, and the wartime travel has diminished, and there is hope that some sleeping cars may be kept on sidings here to supplement local accommodations.

Two ski tows will be operated, and the toboggan run will be speeded up to return toboggans to the top of the hill faster. The skating rink this season will be near the warming house where heavy equipment may be used to maintain it, rather than on the pond. There will be a play hill for youngsters and beginners.

Each of the eight weeks of the season will feature a different Michigan city, with special events for winter sports fans and the "snow queen" from that community.

Notice, Grayling Business Places

This request is being made of the business places to help out during an emergency that will exist here for the next two months. Due to a load beyond the capacity of the Light Plant, Monday, at 6:00 p.m., the main switch tripped out and it was impossible to restore service until some of the load was taken off.

In order to prevent this from happening again, I am personally requesting that all decorative and store front lighting be left off until after 6:00 p.m. Your co-operation on this matter will greatly assist in helping the municipal plant get by the peak load that occurs between 5:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. This request may seem unnecessary to you, but it is the only means we have of handling the increased load until the new generating unit is installed and ready to use.

Thanking you for your co-operation.

Geo. A. Granger, City Manager.

Kiwanis Club Elects Officers

The Grayling Kiwanis Club elected its officers for the year 1946-47 at its weekly luncheon meeting held at Shoppens Inn last Wednesday.

Selected to act as the club President for next year was this year's vice-president, Robert W. Strong. Arthurine West was elected vice-president for the ensuing year. Dr. R. A. Barrus and John H. Peterson were elected to two-year terms as directors. They will replace Floyd Davis and Earl Burns, whose terms expire at the end of this year.

Lieut.-Governor-elect Charles Moore revealed that a business session for all newly elected officers in the district would be held in Grayling on December 4. About 20 men will be here for the business sessions in the afternoon and to meet with the Grayling club at their noon meeting, and will be at the hotel for an evening dinner.

Services Held For Mrs. D. Trevegno

Services were held Tuesday afternoon at one o'clock for Mrs. D. Trevegno at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Carl W. Johnson, 1727 Park St. Mrs. Trevegno was in the Traverse City Cemetery. Wilhelm Raue, Fred Welsh, Roy Milnes, Clarence Johnson, A. J. Joseph and Emil Giegling served as pall-bearers.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Otto Wolfe of Port Huron, Mrs. Leo White of Dearborn, and Mrs. Charles Woodbury of Bay City, and one son, Kenneth MacLeod of Grayling. Also surviving are 10 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. MacLeod had been a resident of Grayling for 43 years and was known and loved by all. Attending from out of the city were Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Patterson of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Woodbury and daughter Karen Ann, of Bay City, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Woodbury, of Port Huron, and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Birdall are spending a few days at Houghton Lake, hunting, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Jacobs.

State Disposes Snow Removal Fund

Dispersal of $200,000 to 38 counties of Michigan which had the heaviest snowfall last winter was announced by Highway Commissioner, Charles M. Ziegler.

Each year this amount is taken from the state gasoline tax and dispersed among counties which have a precipitation of snow amounting to 80 inches or more. In accordance with Act 1 of the Extra Session of the Legislature of 1937, the amount of snowfall is used as a basis of the formula on which the funds are paid to the counties.

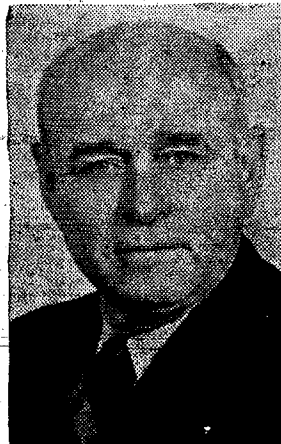

Following are some of the counties which will participate in the snow removal money and the amounts which they will receive: Crawford $4,701.57; Kalkaska $7,919.82; Oshtemo $5,642.49; Roscommon, $4,153.30.

Talk To Feature AuSable Stories

The Grayling Woman's Club will present Dr. E. C. Beck at the Methodist Church at 8:00 p.m., November 24. Dr. Beck has appeared in Grayling before, as a commencement speaker and as an assembly speaker.

He knows the AuSable country well, having collected lumberjack songs and stories in the area. These are being published by the University of Michigan Press as the rather popular book, "Songs of the Michigan Lumberjacks."

This college professor is unique in that he manages the well-known Michigan Lumberjacks, a group of old-time entertainers who have played the big cities and have appeared at such big radio stations as St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Cleveland, Washington, and New York. They played the Detroit Sports Show last year and have contracts for the Indianapolis and Buffalo shows this year.

Dr. E. C. Beck

The Grayling program will feature the songs and stories of the AuSable and the Manitowish, for which there will be no admission charge.

Dr. E. C. Beck is head of the English department at Central Michigan College at Mt. Pleasant. He has degrees from Yenching University and Peabody. More important than his degrees, he has contacts with people of all kinds. Besides his famous lumberjack collection, he has songs of cowboys collected in the range, stories and verse of hoboes collected in the jungles, hillbilly materials collected in the Ozarks, Cumberland and Smokies.

Retires From State Police

Harry Wright has retired from the Michigan State Police after 28 years of continuous service. He was quartermaster of the East Lansing headquarters and was ranked as a sergeant.

Mr. Wright lived in Grayling and was employed at the Military Reservation before accepting a position with the State Police. He married a Grayling girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Peck, deceased, well-known Grayling citizens. The Wrights still maintain a home here at 727 Park St. and have spent vacations and week-ends here for over 30 years.

Sgt. Wright was one of the pioneers of the State Police, enlisting in November, 1917. His first assignment was delivering supplies to the newly-formed detachments of the State Police. The supplies included forage, as the groups used horses instead of patrol cars in those days.

Sgt. Wright was a well-known figure in the old Michigan National Guard organization, having been a member of the First Michigan Field Artillery from January 7, 1908, to June, 1916. He attended Guard camp at Sparta, Wisconsin, 1908 and 1909 as a mechanic; the same camp in 1910 as a gunner corporal; Port Huron, 1911, as mess sergeant; Ludington, 1912, as battalion quartermaster sergeant; 1913, to Copper Country with the quartermasters department; attended the 1914 school of fire at Tobehanna, Pa., and the Grayling Camp in 1915 as battalion sergeant major of artillery.

1946 Deer Season May Smash Many Records

Deer hunters, 300,000 strong, bright in their traditional red wool hunting clothes, moved into the northern counties for the hunting that began last Friday. They are finding the deer herd at peak abundance.

Last season 270,000 hunters took 97,721 deer to give Michigan top place among deer hunting states of the nation. This season returned war veterans who had not hunted deer in years were swelling the rifleman's ranks, and after three light winters the herd can easily afford another record kill. A big harvest, Conservation Department game men say, will improve the herd's ability to weather a severe winter where the winter supply of browse is small.

North Filled Up. Reservations were reported taken up. Many used the old-fashioned tent and cookstove camp that was standard before hunters took to staying in tourist cabins and eating in restaurants. Special crews worked at the State Game Preserve, where a proportionately larger part of the recent increase in hunters has found good hunting.

Hunters in the North registered their camp location with conservation officers to speed delivery of any emergency messages from home. Five northern Michigan radio stations, at Ironwood, Iron Mountain, Calumet, Marquette and Escanaba, are carrying special hunters' information service program at 5 p. m. week days, and 7:45 p. m. Sundays, central standard time.

Deer hunters are being advised to emulate small game hunters, who this season cut in half the usual number of deaths from gun accidents. Haste and carelessness took 10 lives, injured 44 in the season.

12 Men Pay Fines, Costs

Twelve men paid fines totaling $195.00 and costs of $78.80 before Justice Emil Giegling on Friday and Saturday evenings and a Monday session of court, after pleading guilty to hunting violations and one traffic violation.

Fined $10.00 and costs of $6.00 each for carrying loaded guns in vehicles were: Leon Smith, of Snoyer; Thomas Raciboski, Jackson; Edward Gorzen, Jackson; Lawrence Dornbos, Grand Haven; George Weir, Royal Oak; Arthur Harmon, Benton Harbor and Clyde Ruffer of Grandville.

Paying fines of $25.00 and costs of $6.00 for carrying guns in deer areas before the opening of the season were N. W. Lynch of Royal Oak and Mark Wood of Lansing.

Leonard Lot of Lansing was fined $25.00 and $6.00 costs after pleading guilty to a charge of carrying a loaded rifle in his car while patrolling a fire line at the edge of the game refuge.

LaVern Slack of Bronson was fined $25.00 and $6.00 costs for shooting a buck with spike horns less than 3 inches in length.

Ernest Manchester of Grayling paid a $25.00 fine and costs of $6.00 after pleading guilty to a reckless driving charge.

All arrests except Manchester's were made by Conservation officers; he was apprehended by Sheriff John A. Papendick.

CHRISTMAS SEALS SALE STARTS

Christmas Seals, symbol of the nation's fight against tuberculosis, will go on sale here Monday, Nov. 25.

Funds raised in this 40th annual national seal campaign, which continues until Christmas, will carry on the fight of the tuberculosis associations to eradicate this disease.

Residents of Crawford County contributed $915.49 to the seal sale last year. During 1945 tuberculosis took one life in this county and one new case was reported.

In a county like Crawford where so few deaths were reported from tuberculosis last year, it is essential that the people not relax their efforts against the disease, Theodore J. Werle, executive secretary of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association, said. Unless vigorously opposed, TB can return to areas which are now relatively free of the disease, he said.

"Only continued educational effort, coupled with advances in medicine and surgery, the excellent cure offered by the state's tax-supported sanatoriums, and the vigilance of the public health officers, will eventually wipe out tuberculosis in Michigan," Mr. Werle declared.

Ninety-five percent of all funds raised in the state remain in Michigan to support the tuberculosis associations' state-wide program of health education, home service "follow-up," rehabilitation and vocational training of the tuberculous, medical research, and supplying—where needed—tuberculin tests and X-ray film for case findings.

Mrs. Charles Brenizer of Detroit and Mrs. Edward Morrissey of Grand Rapids spent several days last week with their mother, Mrs. Catherine Loskos.

B. F. Green of Hudson was at Frederic for the hunting.

Kill Appears High

The kill has been unusually high in the Grayling area and the number of hunters was high the first week-end, but tapering off sharply Sunday. It is thought that the extremely cold weather might have had something to do with the drop in the number of hunters during the first part of this week.

No deaths from hunting accidents have as yet been reported in the Grayling area, and although a few hunters are at Mercy Hospital with gunshot wounds, none occurred in this immediate vicinity.

A steady stream of returning hunters was headed south on US-37 most of the day Sunday. Cars with two deer on were common, and every now and then a car with three, four and even five bucks lashed on passed through town.

The evidence of the kill in the Grayling area and those observed going through town point to a record-breaking harvest this season.

If the storage of bucks bagged is any barometer, the kill in this area will be "way over last year, when Michigan led the nation. In the first eleven days of the 1944 deer season, 17 deer were stored at Burrow's Market, while last year 32 found their way into the cooler during the first ten days of the season. The first day of this season, 48 bucks were brought into the local market for storage. In the first five days of this season, 97 have been stored here. If the bucks average 150 pounds each, that would represent 7 1/2 tons of venison.

Those who brought in their bucks for storage the first day were:

Elmer Greenwell and Harry Peterson, of Pittsford; Wm. Hermann of Mt. Rose; A. D. Ringle, Middleton; A. Klinefelter, Bad Axe; H. Reister, Sparta; B. Nybloch, Kent City; F. Beare, Kent; Joe Scanlon, Mt. Rose; A. Riste, Battle Creek; Tony Ancona, Flat Rock; L. F. Kisse, Lansing; Sy Hughes, Ann Arbor; Melvin Soper, Saginaw; Bud Sudegar, Jackson; Paul Pluff, Battle Creek; Philip Laujovitz and Shirley Laujovitz, Gladwin; Scott and Mrs. Scott; Temperance; A. J. Blondin, Bay City; Geo. Runnett, Lincoln; R. Tussing and Charles Bennett, Three Rivers; Bill Ackerman, Vassar; W. Schofield, Mt. Morris; N. Pielder, Manistowic; A. Morrison, Jackson; M. Strickert, Flint; J. Marble, Kalamazoo; Chas. Anderson, Detroit; Alan Bell, Lincoln Park; Ed Szymczak and Jo Szymczak, Vassar; Ralph Crawford, Kalamazoo; Arvin Rogers, Lansing; J. L. Schmidt, Strasburg, Pa.; Nelly Wells, Saginaw; Annie Chickler, Monroe; Lloyd Edgar, J. P. Royston and Alvin Jensen, of Lakeview; Don Pecararo, Riverdale; Neal Reimerson, Grand Rapids.

Other lucky hunters who stored their deer during the next four days were:

Ed Decker, Flint; Morris DeJonghe, Zealand; Wm. F. Sadler, Detroit; Wm. Kidd and Dorothy Kidd, Ann Arbor; Dale Letter, Chicago, Ill.; Don D. Jones, Bloomfield Hills; R. D. Godby, Flint; R. J. Butler, Clawson; C. I. Darling, and Steven Matz, Detroit; Arnold Jerome, Pontiac; J. D. Snyder, Grayling; John Kerre, Detroit; I. H. Honeyball, Flint; Chester Ritchie, Linwood; Geo. Armbrust, Arroyo, Chas. E. Osburn, Detroit; Elmer Taylor and Wilhelm Taylor, Flint; C. Redick, Detroit; J. Carpenter, Charlotte; Jack K. King, Jacksonville, Tex.; George K. BeDem and Howard Mack, Durand; Ivan Bell, Muskegon; H. R. Maitman and R. Dishan, W. Flint; Harold Djock, Farmington; Harold Parker, Walled Lake; M. L. Skiles, Constantine; Stuart Bicknell, Clare; Harold Johnson, Balding; A. Steinkamp, F. and V. H. Dankinberg, Lansing; Chas. Woodall, Saugatuck; Mike Mosson, Jackson; Frank Rusko, Quincy; Maurice Phelps, Fostoria; E. Carle, Pontiac; E. Ostahowski, Midland; Carl Merriam, Riverdale; E. G. Osburn, Flint; Louis Patison, Port Huron; R. A. Walker, Flint; J. Foulds, Lansing; Mr. Mohr and Mr. Gates, Bainbridge, Pa.; D. Orves and Kay Puckett, Pontiac.

W. Burns of Port Huron had two nice big, fat raccoons stored in the cooler also.

Bucks were also stored "in the cooler at Duncan's Market, where 14 more were added to the first five-day total. The Market offered a free ham to the man who brought in the largest buck on the first day and a free slab of bacon to the man bringing in the first deer. Stanley Bush, not Frank DeFray, was awarded the ham for a 12-point, 187-pound buck. The horns of this deer were still in the velvet.

Frank Snyder of Lake Michigan was awarded the bacon. Others to store their bucks at Duncan's were: James Anderson and Fred Hyner, of Battle Creek; Oscar Lentz and Clare Galtner, of Detroit; Harold Peterson and Carl Spiegler, of Pontiac; Jerome Kaylor of Flint; Fred Slagle of Nashville; Dauff Galtner of Lansing; George Randall of Lake Odessa; Fred Siedell, Lake Orion; Frank Seiderman, Ovid; Geo. Henderson.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Le Butt and son Michael left for Detroit last Thursday night. Mr. Le Butt returning Wednesday, and Mrs. Le Butt and Michael, Sunday.

Clair Burns got his deer.

Maple Forest

Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Borchers spent Friday and Saturday with the Roy Papenfus family. Everyone comes home for the hunting season when possible. The following is a partial list of people who visited relatives at this time: Lewis Howse, Dennis and Donald Lovely, Sam Hamblin, Bernard Feldhauser, Lawrence Smith, Marvin Smith.

Mary Lee Weaver is ill. Among successful local hunters in this area, we have: Earl Lovely, Leonard Plagens, Archie Howse, Henry Verlinde, Harold Babbitt, Gerald Smith, Bernard Feldhauser, Don Dobson, Clyde Lozon.

Miss Emma Jean Owen spent the week-end with friends in Hamilton, Ontario.

Ed Feldhauser arrived Monday night from his home in Oregon.

Lovells Notes

Bud Caldwell arrived home Monday from Camp Polk, La., for a few days' visit with relatives. He had four days' furlough and left Sunday night for a camp in New Jersey. All were delighted to see him and his coming home was a surprise.

Mr. and Mrs. Charley King and the latter's father, Tom Griswald, of Bay City, spent the week-end at the Caldwell cottage in Lovells while enjoying the sport of deer hunting.

Mrs. Harold Lynch of Detroit arrived Sunday night to join her husband, who is staying at the Stillwagons here while hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kellogg had a number of their children and families with them over the week-end, the men going deer hunting.

Pat Harwood of Grayling assisted Edgar Caid in the store over the week-end, a busy season for the storekeepers.

Every cabin in and around the Lovells community was filled to the top with hunters—and more hunters.

The Hunter's Dance sponsored by the "Cheerful Givers Club" Saturday night at Lovells Town Hall was a crowded mass of hunters. The music was fine and the kitchen service was very good.

All in all, it was a very successful party and the club wishes to thank each and every one for their help in making it so successful. They are sponsoring another Hunter's Dance Saturday night, Nov. 23.

Same music, same food, and, we hope, the same good time.

Roy Peterman from the "So" assisted in the orchestra Saturday night. His many friends were glad to see him again.

Dr. Shannon and a party of friends are enjoying "Shamrock Shanty" during the deer season.

Fred Bishaw of Grayling did the cooking for Mrs. Stillwagon during the opening of the deer season and his daughter, Rosa Bishaw, helped in the dining room.

Margie Caid enjoyed the week while Bud was also home.

Mrs. Maude Carroll and Mrs. Edith Spaulding assisted Frank Wood in his store during the opening week of the deer season.

Don't miss the second Hunter's Dance at the Town Hall, Saturday night, November 23. That night will decide who wins the Afghan.

...the perfect team!

Here, there and everywhere, Hudson style and stamina are making new conquests—taking thousands of hearts by storm.

This preference for the new Hudson is phenomenal, even in a year when car demand is far above normal. You ought to know the reasons for it.

Women's hearts—men's, too—have been captured by the smartness of new exterior styling, and the luxury of new interiors upholstered in a leather-fabric combination found in only one other 1946 car (one of the highest priced).

Present Hudson owners—and thousands of "habe-buyers" of other makes as well—also know what a mountain of evidence Hudson piled up during the war years for smooth performance, reliability, endurance and economy.

There's another reason... the splendid Protective Service offered by 3,000 authorized Hudson dealers from coast to coast—with expert mechanics, modern equipment and genuine Hudson parts.

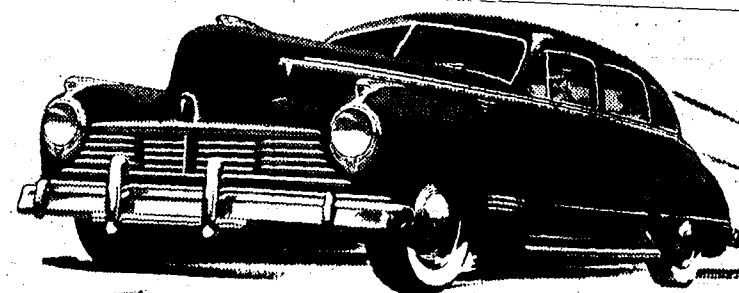

We are here to serve you—promptly, courteously, at moderate cost. Visit us today. You will find this Hudson organization, too, is "the perfect team"—backing fine cars with expert service, for your satisfaction.

A Community Asset

For the past two years of our residence here, we have listened on occasions to various citizens saying that a High School Band was a really needed group, both from a school and a community standpoint. It reached its height—that is the discussion—during the day and the day following the appearance here of the Roscommon High School Band which led the Grayling Victory Parade.

That a High School Band has had a beginning is, of course not news. A small nucleus of what is hoped to be a 40-piece marching band, will play at the winter basketball games. They made their first appearance at the Hunters' Ball last Friday night at the High School.

A good high school band is definitely a community asset. The Board of Education has done its part in securing the efforts of a fine music teacher. So far as instruments and uniforms are concerned the picture is not so bright. The Parent-Teacher Association has voted to back the Band financially, to see that they have the instruments that they yet need; to try and acquire a set of uniforms for the members of the organization.

The Grayling Sportsmen's Club, at its last meeting donated a sum sufficient to purchase a field drum. It is hoped that other civic groups in the city will see fit to follow suit.

During the next few months, there will undoubtedly be presented many money-raising projects to build up a fund to help the young musicians at the school. Each and every project should have the undivided backing of every truly civic-minded person.

A snappily dressed, well-trained marching band strutting across the greensward can do wonders for a football eleven. And the chills go up the backs of the spectators, too! We're looking forward to reporting games on a new field with a fine Grayling High School Band marching between halves. We know you will do your bit.

Tilling with a Hundred Teams of Steel

MORE power on the farm means more food... more jobs.

If a farmer had three teams of horses twenty-five years ago he was well equipped. Now, with over two million tractors and thousands of other power producers, most farmers command the equivalent of... a HUNDRED TEAMS.

Wise use of their power, which can be packed into a few tons of steel, is enabling U.S. farmers to keep abreast of unprecedented food requirements. It is one of the secrets of national progress.

Steel horsepower does more than produce bigger crops with less labor. It has released, for production of human food, millions of acres once needed to feed horses and mules, and has created thousands of new jobs for town and city people who process and sell the increased harvests.

The benefits of farming with steel are the result of teamwork between farmers and industry. The farmer knows what he needs; industry knows how to supply it at a price he can afford. This teamwork must continue if America is to remain a land of abundance.

Farmers need still more power. The country needs still more food. Uninterrupted industrial production will permit industry to catch up with the pent-up need for more farm power.

It's the story of a boy from a small town in South Dakota who has never lost his love for that small town, through the years when he's become one of our best political and war reporters. Many of us will never forget some of his broadcasts over CBS during the war, and still look forward to his Saturday night talks. During her first London luncheon, Goldwyn Girl Martha Montgomery asked for a glass of milk, and the waiter asked for her certificate. "In England," he explained, when Mar- tha looked blank, "Milk is issued only for infants and invalids. If I may be excused for the observation, I should venture to say you are nei- ther." The girls are touring the provinces before the opening of "The Kid From Brooklyn."

Helen Nielson, who makes her screen debut in Columbia's Glenn Ford-Janez Blair starrer, "Gallant Journey," was discovered by talent scouts in the cast of a Hollywood Lit- tle Theatre play—but she's a cousin of Veronica Lake's, lives with Veronica, and was coached by her. But maybe a screen career for her has always been her fate; when she was twelve she appeared in an am- ateur performance in a New York City neighborhood theater and walked off with the first prize—and the prize was a Shirley Temple doll!

David Niven calls his new Santa Monica home "The Fortress," not only because it resembles one; it's manned entirely by seasoned com- bat veterans. Even the nurse who cares for his two boys was a mem- ber of a mixed anti-aircraft battery, and has several planes to her credit. Niven himself, who'll be seen next in Goldwyn's "The Bishop's Wife," was a colonel in the British Rifle Brigade.

The first exclusive long-term con- tract for an acting horse has been hoofed (like a finger print) by Dice, the featured stallion in "Duel in the Sun." He's signed up for two years with David O. Selznick.

Now that "Deception" is being shown, Bette Davis wants to do a comedy; since 1941, she's been spe- cializing in tragedies. "People will think I'm a humorless character who stalks the corridors with a candle scaring small children," said Bette. She thinks her best comedy role was in "It's Love I'm After," which was made in 1937 and was overshadowed by the Award-winning "Jezebel."

The casting department at War- ner Bros. spent six days finding 12 male and 12 female dancers who could do an old-fashioned waltz for "My Wild Irish Rose," the Chaun- cey O'Connell picture. Twenty-two applicants tested and lost.

Sketch-Henderson, young pianist of the Bing Crosby program, fully intended to become a concert pian- ist when he left England and came to his native America. But—once he was introduced to American jazz, he changed his mind, and look at him now!

ODDS AND ENDS—Richard New- man, creator of goons for stars, is doing 20 "super-specials" for Lauren Bacall to wear opposite Humphrey Bogart in "Dark Passage." ... Ida Lupino is being taught to stutter for her role as a mountain girl in Warner Bros.' picture.

"Deep Valley." ... Linda Darnell took off 20 pounds for "Forever Am- ber." ... Rory Mallinson, his wife and three children have moved into a Quon- set hut in Graceland Park's veteran buns ing project, says it's much easier than the garage they moved from. ... But Jay Norris, RKO actor, who's had trouble finding a place to live, has in- herited a hotel in Albany, Ga.

Why Bert Won First Prize

Folk weren't surprised when Bert Childers won first prize for his corn at the county fair.

Yet the judges admit it wasn't just because Bert had the finest ears of corn. He knew how to dis- play them; neatly arranged, with the husks cleanly trimmed, and the booth white and spotless.

"Trimming" sure make a differ- ence no matter what you're offer- ing—on Andy Botkin, keeper of the Garden Tavern, well knows. Andy doesn't just sell good beer. He sells it in a place that's clean and attrac- tive ... in nice surroundings that belong with the enjoyment of a wholesome beverage of moderation.

And Andy, of course, is a whole- hearted supporter of "Self Regu- lation." That's the system by which the Brewers and tavern keepers themselves make sure that taverns selling beer are clean and orderly.

From where I sit, people like Andy also rate a "First prize." Not just for the quality of the product—but for the "trimmings" too.

Turkey, Fixin's In Good Supply For Thanksgiving

There should be plenty of drumsticks and fixin's to go around on Thanksgiving, despite the heavy demand for poultry and turkey caused by the meat shortage earlier this fall, a survey by the nation's leading food distributor discloses.

Reduced military demands have more than offset the slight drop in this year's production as compared with the 1943 record figures, the report by A & P Food Stores points out, with the result that there will be at least as much if not more available for consumers. Heavy cold storage holdings add to the encouraging picture.

This year's turkey crop is placed by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at slightly in excess of 600,000,000 pounds, while the 1943 figure was the record 677,000,000 pounds. The 1946 poultry production is estimated at approximately 3,200,000,000 pounds, compared with 3,700,000,000 pounds last year. Poultry in storage at this time is estimated at 230,000,000 pounds, compared with 134,000,000 pounds in the same 1945 period, while holdings of turkey are three times greater than last year.

As for the fixin's, the 1946 potato crop is expected to hit an all-time high of 475,000,000 bushels; cranberry production is now estimated at more than 800,000 barrels compared with 656,000 barrels in 1945 and a 10-year average of 624,000 and onion production may soar to 37,500,000 fifty-pound sacks, two million more than the previous high set in 1944.

The heavy cranberry producing state of Massachusetts estimates its crop this year at 575,000 barrels, which is 14 percent higher than 1945 and 33 percent larger than average. Wisconsin production is expected to total 140,000 barrels, and New Jersey, third producing state, is placed at 80,000 barrels.

Calvary, winter squash, nuts, grapes, pumpkins and apples are available in good supply, while the heavy wheat crop assures an ample supply of bread for dressing.

Navy To Offer College Exam Here

The Navy announced today that the first nation-wide competitive examination for its Officer College Training Program has been scheduled for January 18, 1947, and will be open to high school seniors or graduates within the age requirements. Successful candidates will be given a four-year college education at government expense and will be commissioned officers of the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or of the Reserve, upon graduation. Application forms must be forwarded in time for receipt by December 17.

Students selected by these competitive examinations will be offered entrance in either the Naval Reserve Officers Training Corps (NROTC) or the Naval Aviation College Program (NACP). Those selecting the former program will attend one of the 52 colleges or universities having NROTC units where they will receive from the government the cost of their tuition, books, and normal fees and $50.00 a month for the four-year period of education. Upon graduation, they may be commissioned in the Regular Navy and will be required to serve two years on active duty if commissioned. Upon completion of these two years, they may apply for a permanent commission in the Regular Service or transfer to the Reserve and return to civilian life.

Mr. Wesley E. Kumpula, Principal of Grayling High School, is acting as the Navy's local civilian representative, and will be pleased to provide specific information about this program including the place of the competitive examination, application forms, and necessary age and scholastic qualifications.

IRONIC QUEST OF YOUTH

Most of those who profess to have found the secret of longevity have died before their time, reports Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association. He reviews the alleged discoverers of the formula of long life in The American Weekly with this Sunday's (November 24) issue of The Detroit Sunday Times.

WE all wish to express our deepest gratitude and thanks to the many who showed their kindness in our hour of need.

state legislators, back in 1943, that this reserve fund would take care of the needs of veterans in the immediate post-war years and that the question of a state bonus could be postponed until Congress arrived at a decision of whether a federal bonus was going to be paid. Congress has already authorized more than 12.5 BILLION Dollars in federal expenditures for GI benefits; a federal bonus is certain to be considered in the near future.

If the imposition of NEW or INCREASED taxes collides with the promised 1947 "recession", the problem will become more acute than ever.

Instead of reducing the state sales tax from 3 to 2½ percent, as Sigler suggested during the fall campaign, he may have to ask for an increase in this or other taxes at a time when pocketbooks are already badly pinched to cover the rising cost of living.

Of course, a legal way out would be for the state supreme court to hold the new amendment invalid. A suit is sure to be filed by someone.

One thing is sure. Lansing is going to have quite a show!

After comparing these rates, please bear in mind that Grayling has had a lower than average Light Rate for the past seven years, or since the Municipal Electric Plant was put into operation. Even under the New Rate, Grayling is still lower than towns surrounding us. The only object of a rate increase at this time is to pay the City employees more wages, which they have been entitled to for many months past.

Grayling's Municipal Electric Plant is owned and operated by the people of Grayling, and any profits derived from its operation are used to benefit all the people of Grayling. One of the biggest profits to the people of Grayling is continued and reliable Electric Service at reasonable rates.

The payroll of the Municipal Electric Plant involves approximately $20,000.00 per year. This money is paid to employees who are citizens and home-owners in Grayling. They in turn spend their money with the local merchants, and the people of Grayling benefit therefrom.

Every property owner in Grayling benefits directly from the operation of the Municipal Electric Plant, because one-third of the cost of operating the Street Lighting System is paid for by the Electric Plant thereby lowering each property owner's tax bill for street lighting. If this money for street lighting had to be raised by taxes, it would mean $1.00 extra on the tax bill for each $1,000.00 of assessed valuation.

Figure out these benefits to you for yourself, and see what it means to you in a year's time. A BOOSTER FOR THE GRAYLING MUNICIPAL ELECTRIC PLANT IS A BOOSTER FOR GRAYLING.

THANK YOU.

The Grayling City Council.

Elizabeth drew back and stared at him, almost angrily, resenting what he said and fighting against having to accept it. He wanted a moment to give her time to get used to it, and then went on.

"When we get older, and are drawn into the depths of experience, it is sometimes very tempting to look back and regret the time when we were skipping over the surface without dreaming how thin it was."

Elizabeth still did not answer. All this was new to her, as relating to herself. It was as though he were accusing her of having been foolish just when she thought she was being wise.

"When we do look back," said Kessler, "it means that just then we are frightened at the challenge of being adult."

"I have been frightened," she acknowledged, still astonished at all he was showing her. "You know that."

"What we forget in those moments, of course," he went on, "is that the profoundest joys, as well as the greatest trials, are found in the depths of experience. The happiness of youth is a shallow excitement, it can't be anything else. But the happiness of maturity, I mean real mental and emotional maturity, is strong and deeply rooted because it comes of having tested this and that until we have discovered the permanent values. Cherry is heartbroken if she goes to a party and isn't dressed like the others. Some women your age are too, because they're still judging life by Cherry's standards, but you aren't, because you long ago outgrew letting yourself be heartbroken over things that didn't matter. Mrs. Herlong," he exclaimed earnestly, "you have gone so far—don't turn back now!"

"And that's what I'm doing!" she confessed. "I didn't know it. But I'm trying to go back!"

"Yes. You are looking back to the rashness days when no war interrupted your pleasures, when you had no son to go into danger, when there was no crisis to demand your courage."

CHAPTER XXII

In looking for that dream of security, you have been looking for Arthur. He added, firmly and inclusively, "If I were your first husband, Mrs. Herlong, I would tell you exactly what I am telling you now. You don't want him back."

Elizabeth passed her hand over her forehead, pushing back her hair. The gesture seemed to clear her eyes and her mind with them. She said, "You are not Arthur, then?"

"No. Your first husband is dead. You can't have him back, and I repeat, you don't want him back."

He paused to be sure she was listening. She nodded to assure him that she was.

Elizabeth thought of the time when Cherry, as a baby, had been so ill they had feared they might lose her. She remembered when Spratt had lost his job, hit from behind by a friend he had trusted. She thought of the night when she had sobbed secretly on his shoulder at Dick's joining the Marines, and he had said, "What do you suppose I'm here for?"

"Yes!" she exclaimed. Oh yes. "I can be a friend of you both," said Kessler, "a dear friend perhaps, but I'm outside your essential life because I did not help you build it. Don't let me threaten it now, Mrs. Herlong! You can keep it—that depends on your self-command, not on mine. No human being can destroy the structure of a marriage except the two who made it. It is the one human edifice that is impregnable except from within. Keep it. You need it."

Elizabeth smiled, without realizing that she was doing so. "Yes," she said to him, "I need it."

Elizabeth had a sense of freedom like nothing she had ever felt before. She drew a long breath. Her mind flashed back to that bright year with Arthur, and then lingered on her twenty years with Spratt. The two periods were as different in meaning as they were in length. She had known all along that the second had a value greater than the first. But she had never placed them side by side, as Kessler had made her do today, to see with vehement clarity how her love for Spratt overpowered anything she had ever shared with Arthur.

"Thank you, Mr. Kessler," she said in a low voice. "You don't know what you've done for me."

Kessler smiled at her gratefully, but he did not answer. It was as though, having accomplished what he had set out to do, he felt no need of saying anything more.

But as she watched him Elizabeth was convinced of something else, which was that he had meant just what he had said. He was never going to tell her any more than he had told her. If he was Arthur, further persistence on her part would be useless. If he was Arthur, it would never tell her. She might suspect to the end of her life, but she would never know.

She understood, as in her agitation last night and this morning she had not understood, what Kessler had done for somebody, if not for her. He had resolutely moved himself into a sphere of his own, where his disaster would be only his, not interfering in any way with the normal lives of normal persons. It was all very well to say now that if she had known twenty-five years ago Arthur was making such a sacrifice, she would not have accepted it. But, if this man was Arthur—then, because she had not known, she had accepted it. And now, because she was not sure, she had to go on accepting it. If she had any magnanimity of spirit, the only return she could make him was to accept fully what he wanted to give her by letting him believe she was persuaded he was not Arthur. But as she watched him Elizabeth thought, "I never will be sure. I'll never, never know."

But she remembered that there was something else she could do for him. He had told her so last night. She roused herself to speak.

She said, "Mr. Kessler, last night you suggested you had a favor to ask of me. I hope that's still true."

Kessler looked up, with a slight start as though her voice had recalled him from a great distance. For a moment he seemed to be getting his thoughts in order. Then he answered, "Yes, it's still true."

"I told you last night," said Elizabeth, "I'd be happy to do anything in my power for you. After what you have done for me today, I'd like to repeat that in capitals."

Kessler smiled at her. She had been right; he did believe that she was fully persuaded, and that was what he wanted. "Thank you, Mrs. Herlong. I want to put, shall we say, a part of tomorrow in your hands. Margaret."

She was astonished. "You mean you want me to take her?"

He nodded.

"But don't you want her? I thought you loved her so much."

"I do love her. But I shan't be here always."

Elizabeth sat up straight, holding the arms of her chair. "What do you mean?"

"Look at me, Mrs. Herlong," he said quietly. "Haven't you ever wondered how I have lived as long as this?"

"No, I haven't. Your life has hardly seemed to depend on physical strength. Mr. Kessler, forgive me! What a strain we have put on you! Dick, myself, all of us—we never stopped to realize you were ill."

"That doesn't matter," he answered, so quickly that it was like an interruption. "Please don't think it matters. If you let this trouble you I'll be sorry I spoke. Please!" he exclaimed insistently, for she had risen to her feet, ready to go before he wore himself out with any more talking.

Elizabeth sat down again. "Mr. Kessler, of course I'll take Margaret. I'll take her now if you'll let me. But don't you want to come with her? Why don't you let me take care of you, instead of staying here with nobody but a hired housekeeper? If you only knew how much I should like to do it!"

"No, no, that's not what I want. Thank you, but I only wanted to tell you that it's very unlikely I'll live as long as Margaret will need protection. When I can no longer be her father, will you be her mother?"

"Of course I will. No, please don't start to thank me. Spratt and I both love children; now that ours are growing up we've often said we wished we had another younger than Brian. So don't start being grateful."

"You may get a great reward for it," said Kessler. "I told you how brilliant her parents were."

"Oh, that. I hope she's all you think her, but if she isn't, it makes no difference. She's a dear child. With all my heart I hope she won't need us, but if she does, we'll be very happy to have her. Don't fear for Margaret's future." She spoke quickly and sincerely.

"I won't," he promised her smiling. "Not for hers, nor for yours."

"Thank you. Now I'm going. You are very tired."

Kessler, who had risen when she did, had sat down as though too tired to keep standing. He had sat holding his cane rigidly, looking at it instead of at her while she talked. But he had listened, with a faint smile of gratitude, as though what she was saying brought him a great sense of peace. Now, still without looking up, he said, very low,

"Thank you, Mrs. Herlong. I hope you will never be so lonely that what anyone will say to you can mean as much as that means to me." He was silent a moment. Then, "Good-by," he said.

"Good-by," said Elizabeth. She went over to him. He was still looking down. She bent and kissed his forehead quickly. Before he could say anything else she went out.

Kessler leaned his arm on the table by him and bent his head to rest on it. She was gone and she seemed to have taken all his strength with her. He thought of Elizabeth, leaving him for years of vigorous living. He was so tired that he could hardly imagine what it was like to be vigorous.

But he had given her those years to come. She had told him so, not dreaming how much her words meant to him. He was convinced now that she did not know who he was. But he knew, and that was enough. When she told him what Arthur had done for her, it was as though she was telling him that at last he had finished what he had set out to do that day in the German hospital. He thought of what he had said to Jacoby that day. "You never loved a woman enough to die for her." It had been hard enough to die for her once. But in retrospect that seemed almost easy compared to what it had cost him today to kill his image in her soul.

When Spratt came home that evening she only told him Kessler was ill and had asked if they would take care of Margaret. Spratt agreed without hesitation.

"Poor kid, of course we'll take her. You won't mind if she's a bit of trouble?"

"Of course not," said Elizabeth. She nearly added, "Even if she were, I'd do anything on earth for him," but checked herself. That would require explaining, and she did not yet feel ready to explain. Spratt was talking.

"Look here, Elizabeth, maybe that guy is too sick to work and is just keeping it up because he can't afford to stop. Do you suppose we could persuade him to take a rest?"

"Oh Spratt, please try! Make him let us pay for it. And please—"

"Yes, what?"

"Tell him it was your idea. I don't think he'd take it from me."

"What an intense sort of person you are," Spratt observed with a grin. "You feel things all the way through. All right, I'll give him a ring in the morning. Rather late for it tonight."

The next morning she was up, having coffee, when Spratt came into her room.

"Thought I'd call Kessler now," he said. "If he feels like seeing me I can go by on the way to the studio." He gave her a sidelong glance. "Now that you've slept on it, do you still feel like having Margaret here?"

"Yes, if you do."

"It's all right with me."

"You're a prince, Spratt."

He chuckled. "Not me. You're the one who'll have to bother about her clothes and lessons and teeth and disposition. It won't be as easy as looking out for your own children, either."

"Who said they were ever easy?"

"Your mind's made up, then?"

She nodded.

"Okay," said Spratt. He sat down on her chair-lounge and picked up the phone.

"This is Spratt Herlong. Can I speak to Mr. Kessler? What? Yes. Yes. I understand. I'll be right over."

He set down the phone, and turned to Elizabeth, who had been listening in alarm. "What is it, Spratt?" she asked.

Spratt wet his lips, and shook his head slowly, as though trying to get used to what it was he had just heard. He answered,

"Kessler died this morning at six o'clock."

For a moment he and Elizabeth sat staring at each other. They were speechless with the curious shocked feeling of trying to get their minds adjusted to a sudden announcement of death. Spratt spoke first, saying something about having to call the studio. For a moment he was silent again, then he stood up.

"This is strange," he said slowly. "Like being hit on the head. He never said anything about being that sick. I'd better get over there right away."

"Yes, go right over," said Elizabeth. She felt as if there was a great deal more she should be saying. But she could not get it out now. She asked, "Why didn't he tell us, Spratt?"

"Maybe he didn't know."

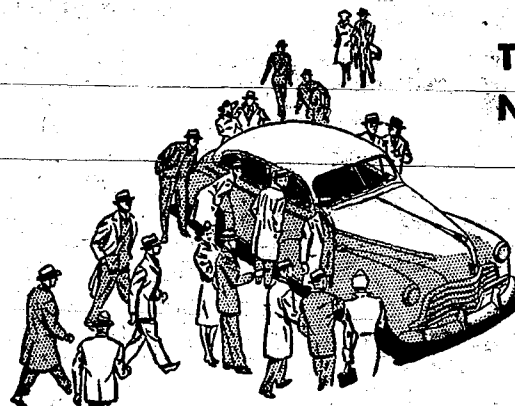

"I think he did," said Elizabeth. Spratt went over to the door and opened it. "I guess we were about his best friends, too," he said guiltily as he went out.

There was nothing more she could do now. Nothing but sit here, staring at the curtains.

But she suddenly remembered that this was not true. There was still something she could do, something she must do at once. She must get Margaret.

Elizabeth sprang up. At the idea of Margaret, alone again in her desolate little world, she found that she was not quite as numb as she had thought. She had to get Margaret now, before the child began to feel utterly abandoned. She began to hurry into her clothes.

THERE SIMPLY ARE NOT ENOUGH NEW CHEVROLETS TO GO AROUND

We are getting our fair share of the current production of new Chevrolet passenger cars and trucks. And as strikes and shortages decrease, as the Chevrolet plants are able to produce more and more new passenger cars and trucks, we'll get more and more of them to deliver to our customers.

Meanwhile, as long as shortages do exist, it is our purpose to apportion our share of the new Chevrolets available fairly and justly among the many customers, new and old, whose continued friendship and patronage are the keystone of our business.

DECLARATION OF POLICY

1. PRIORITY OF DELIVERY—New Chevrolet cars and trucks will be apportioned on the basis of: (1) essential public services, (2) veterans' occupational requirements, (3) priority of date in placing orders.

2. PRICES—All new Chevrolet cars and trucks will be sold at the authorized prices current at time of delivery.

3. TRADE-INS—No trade-in will be required from any customer who does not have a car to dispose of at the time of the transaction. Customers who do have cars will be given allowances based on honest appraisal and fair value at the time of delivery.

4. ACCESSORIES—No customer will be asked to purchase accessories as a condition of securing delivery.

5. STATUS OF ORDERS—Customers will be informed, upon request, of the true status of their orders in our files.

6. NEW ORDERS—We welcome your order for a new Chevrolet at any time.

WE THANK YOU FOR
